

CÉARD
AN SPRÉAC
GAELAC?

What is the Gaelic Spark? It is a magazine published by the New York Gaelic Society and dedicated to Ireland and the Irish way of life.

Within its covers you will find articles pertaining to all phases of Irish life - history, art, music, dancing, literature, sports, current events plus many special feature articles - in both the Gaelic and English languages.

The magazine also is an organ of expression for many creative articles by authors with particular literary ability.

Irish life may be described in many ways by various individuals. It is the policy of the magazine to print many views of various aspects of the "Irish way". Thus, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the editors or the Gaelic Society.

Primarily, An Spréac Gaelac attempts to extend to its readers an appreciation of those things which have been such a significant part of Ireland's past, and are affecting the present and very likely its future. In this category the Gaelic language must take preference. We therefore intend to print as many Gaelic articles as possible.

We invite your letters, suggestions, opinions and literary contributions. We hope An Spréac Gaelac meets with your approval.

The NEW YORK GAELIC SOCIETY meets every Friday evening in the school hall of St. Paul the Apostle Church, 124 W.60 St., NYC., at 8:30 pm.

Classes in the Gaelic language are conducted for beginning, intermediate and advanced students. Gaelic choral groups and Irish ceili dancing are a regular part of its Friday night activities. Of course, refreshments are always served.

All who are interested are cordially invited to participate in these activities.
